ArtBeat Call for Talent

Saturday, July 14, 2018 (rain date: July 15)

2018 festival theme: F L I P!

We're looking for musicians, performance artists, dancers, visual artists, storytellers and all creative people to participate in one of the area's largest public arts festivals

If applicable, send in proposals using "flip" as an overarching theme. Although bands, for example, don't need to relate a proposed performance to the festival theme (although they certainly are welcome to try), we hope many other applicants will relate their proposals to this year's theme.

This year's ArtBeat theme is "flip", a celebration of all things upside down, backwards and sideways. We invite artists and community members to explore how flipping things around can change your point of view. Does flipping things make them better, or worse? How does the idea of flipping things around inform a work of art or concept? "Flip" evokes many things: rapid change; inverting the status quo; changing your mind; flipping a coin; flipping houses; or turning the whole world upside down! Perhaps it's time to flip a switch - literally or figuratively. Are there things that make you want to flip out? Does this winter make you yearn for your flip flops?

For ArtBeat, perhaps we need acrobats flipping through the square, or someone flipping giant pancakes? Let's flip this festival on its head. We look forward to your creative interpretation of this theme!

Deadline: March 27
